Million Cheer Old 69th Regiment in Parade

NEW YORK RAINBOW HEROES MARCH ON FIFTH AVENUE AS ALL CITY PAYS THEM HONOR

'WOUNDED HEAD PARADE'

Second St. Patrick's Day Celebrated by Fighters—Notables Review Them.

For the third time in its history the 69th New York, even though its name is the 165th Infantry of the famous Rainbow Division, marched this afternoon up Fifth Avenue, after returning victorious from the war.

Quite different from the leave-taking of the gallant bunch of fighters was their official homecoming. They went to France in the dead of night, not even their nearest or dearest knowing of their departure till days later. Home they came with all the pomp of war, with banners waving, heads proudly erect, eyes front, amid the plaudits of a grateful people.

Fifth Avenue was a bon of green as far as the eye could reach, sidewalks being lined from curb to curb with people, and roofs jammed. And through the avenue of cheering, waving, shouting and often hysterical throngs, the famous old regiment marched just as if it were going to battle, with Col. William J. Donovan leading them.

Col. Donovan was not exactly at the head of the parade, for that but, kindly man had made provision for his wounded. He placed them at the head of the parade. In automobiles, driven by pretty motor girls, they preceded the parade, that they might receive their meed of praise and view their marching comrades who came behind them.

Col. Donovan had announced that the parade would start from Washington Square Monument at 2 o'clock, and promptly at that moment was the command given to march. A great crowd had been in waiting in the Square, not knowing which way the regiment was to move into its line of formation. Vendors of flags, American and Irish, moved through the park offering their wares. A great variety of green balloons was in evidence and the vendors did a wonderful business.

Pushcart peddlers moved into the park with their wares laden with oranges. This the new St. Patrick's Day. The peddlers were hustled out before the parade came along. Even one fellow who had mixed his oranges with green apples wasn't allowed to make the stand. It was a regular St. Patrick's Day about the square, so far as color went. Even the grass seemed greener and the trees had taken on brighter coloring.

COL. DONOVAN PUTS WOUNDED MEN IN THE LEAD.
There was no delay, no confusion in the start of the parade. Through Washington Square North the gallant fighters came, a mounted police escort at their head. In the avenue they wheeled about the head of the column was past the Statue and the end of the line followed the avenue. Then they halted.

Col. Donovan walked rapidly through the ranks.

LOST BATTALION SURVIVORS HOME IN 6,000 OF 77TH

The famous Lost Battalion of the Argonne Forest came home to-day.

These heroes came on the transport America, which brought nearly 6,000 men of the 77th, and were disappointed when they were not permitted to receive the greeting which nearly 10,000 friends and relatives who went down the bay on four city steamers had prepared for them.

The soldiers on the America were kept below decks by the orders of the commander of the ship for fear that their rushing to the rail to try to make out individual faces in the welcoming boat loads would cause an accident. The men were outspoken on landing in resenting the fact that this rule did not apply to officers, who lined the sides of the upper decks, while men took turns with each other peering through the port holes below.

Brig. Gen. Harrison J. Price of the 154th Infantry Brigade, 77th Division, said that the order to keep the men below decks was requested by the navy because of the difficulty which was experienced in navigating the ship from Quarantine to the pier on her last trip. She listed so much when the soldiers rushed to the sides to look over the welcoming parties that there was danger of a serious accident.

The America brought the 308th Infantry, complete, of which the Lost Battalion is a part, and a greater part of the 307th Infantry. Nearly 16,000 men of the 77th Division now are home and 5,000 more, including the entire 154th Field Artillery Brigade, are due to-morrow morning on the Agamemnon.

MANY MEMBERS OF 308TH WEAR DECORATIONS.

Col. Mason K. Averill was in command of the 308th Infantry which had 95 officers and 3,752 men, of whom 41 officers and 1,350 men are to go to Camp Upton to be mustered out. Seventy-nine men of the regiment have been decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross and five with the Medal of Honor with the Thanks of Congress.

Just before the America sailed from Westchester Sunday, Lieut. Col. Maurice Laurence of the French-American Mission came aboard and decorated Major G. G. McMurtry of No. 22 East 70th Street with the French War Cross for gallantry in action of the Lost Battalion of which he was second in command to Lieut. Col. Whitley. The Major has already received the Congressional Medal.

The French decorations were also conferred on Lieut. Senal, Benjamin.

DR. BLAKE BACK WITH MRS. BLAKE, ONCE MRS. MACKAY

Three Children Also Arrive—Famous Surgeon Will Resume Practice Here.

Down the gang plank from the French liner Lorraine when she docked at the foot of 14th Street this morning came Col. Joseph A. Blake, the surgeon, closely followed by Mrs. Blake, who used to be Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay.

But it was neither the colonel nor his wife who attracted the most attention. What caught all eyes was the group of Blake children, three of them, all born in France, all born during the war, all of them looking for the first time on the New York sky line.

The youngest of the trio was William Duer Blake, a year and a half old, who nestled against his mother's shoulder. The others were Joan, two and a half, and Catherine, three and a half.

Col. Blake made one important announcement.

"I am going to resume my New York practice," he said. "First we are going on a vacation—which we need—at my place in Connecticut, at Litchfield. Then we shall look for a house in New York."

Both the colonel and his wife have been busy night and day for almost five years with the military hospitals, but Mrs. Blake has found time in addition to all that to rear and care for this family of hers—and certainly none of them looked neglected.

When the customs people got through looking over the three little natives of France they looked curiously at Mrs. Blake's hat. It was a feather hat with a yellow feather. The feather is what perplexed the customs people. They didn't know whether it ought to be confiscated under the plumage regulations or not. So they didn't.

The Blakes have spent most of their time at Neuilly and Paris. The colonel was made a member of the Legion of Honor and won a special order of honor from the Service de Santé. He was demobilized last fall and since has been general consultant.

BURLESON READY TO RETURN CABLES TO PRIVATE OWNERS; ASKS APPROVAL OF WILSON

Wants Lines Restored by May 10—President Expected to Agree.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Postmaster General Burleson to-day announced he had recommended to President Wilson that all Government controlled cable lines be turned over to their owners.

Mr. Burleson declared that the cable lines should be returned before May 10. President Wilson will comply with Mr. Burleson's request promptly, it is believed. It is even possible that the recommendation, made several days ago, already has been approved by the President.

The following statement was issued: "The Postmaster General has recommended to the President that the Government return the cable lines to their respective owners. This action is made possible by the fact that the congestion resulting from war conditions has largely passed.

"The enemy commercial blacklist has been abolished and the tremendous volume of government cable messages from and to the War Trade Board has ceased. The bar to commercial cable messages has been removed, thus materially lessening the cable loads.

"The use of the cables in connection with the peace conference has been greatly diminished.

"The Postmaster General hopes that the return of the cables may be effective not later than May 10."

If Mr. Burleson's suggestion is accepted by the President it will constitute the first return of Government controlled utilities, seized during the war emergency, to their private owners.

BOMB SENT SEATTLE MAYOR.

SEATTLE, April 28.—Police Headquarters announced today that the office of Mayor Ole Hanson in the Seattle City County Building received a broken bomb in the mail.

Mayor Hanson is now in Colorado on a Victory Loan speaking tour.

PEACE COUNCIL ADOPTS COVENANT OF WORLD LEAGUE

Approves Wilson's Motion Nominating Sir Eric Drummond as First Secretary.

PARIS, April 28.—The world constitution of the League of Nations was adopted by the Peace Conference, in plenary session, this afternoon.

The covenant will be incorporated in the peace treaty and the League will become a fact as soon as that pact is signed by the delegates and ratified by their respective parliaments.

Sir James Eric Drummond of Great Britain will be the first Secretary-General of the League. The Executive Council will be composed of representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium, Greece, Spain and Brazil.

Appointment of Drummond and nomination of the four smaller nations to be represented in the council were moved by President Wilson.

Sir James Eric Drummond has been private secretary to Foreign Secretary Balfour since 1915. Previous to that he was private secretary to the Premier. He is forty-three years old and entered British diplomatic life in 1900.

Premier Clemenceau, as Chairman of the conference, forced through Wilson's motions after two hours of dreary speeches.

No action was taken on the French amendments for greater military guarantees.

"The report of the Commission on International Labor Legislation was adopted.

President Wilson made a brief speech, explaining the changes in the revised covenant. He referred to the Monroe Doctrine amendment merely as "a new article."

Harmatino, speaking for Japan, gave formal notice that his country will continue to work recognition through the League of Nations, but did not again bring up the amendment providing racial equality, which was defeated by the League commission.

SPECIAL COURT CREATED FOR TRIAL OF THE KAISER; WILSON TO NAME ONE JUDGE

Articles of the Peace Treaty Publicly Arraign Him for a "Supreme Offense Against Sanctity of Treaties"—Surrender by Holland to Be Demanded.

PARIS, April 28.—The peace treaty with Germany, as drawn for presentation to the Germans, contains a clause providing that former Emperor William be tried by an international tribunal, it was learned to-day. A separate tribunal will try other military officers.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The State Department confirms the statement from Paris that provision for the trial of the former Kaiser will be included in the treaty of peace.

The following announcement was given out to-day: "Following are the proposed articles regarding penalties, for insertion in the treaty of peace to be considered at plenary session of conference to-day, Monday, at 5 o'clock P. M., Paris time:

ARTICLE I.
The allied and associated powers publicly arraign William II, of Hohenzollern, formerly German Emperor, not for an offense against criminal law but for a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties.

"A special tribunal will be constituted to try the accused, thereby assuring him the guarantees essential to the right of defense. It will be composed of five judges, one appointed by each of the following five powers; namely the United States of America, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

"In its decision the tribunal will be guided by the highest motives of international policy with a view to vindicating the solemn obligation of international undertakings and the validity of international morality. It will be its duty to fix the punishment which it considers should be imposed.

"The allied and associated powers will address a request to the Government of The Netherlands for the surrender to them of the ex-Emperor in order that he may be put on trial.

ARTICLE II.
The German Government, not having insured the punishment of the persons accused of having exercised acts in violation of laws and customs of war, such person will be brought before the military tribunals by the allied and associated powers, and if found guilty, sentenced to the punishments laid down by military law.

"The German Government shall hand over to the allied and associated powers or to such one of them as shall so request all persons accused of having committed an act in violation of the laws and customs of war who are specified either by name or by the rank, office or employment which they held under the German authorities.

ARTICLE III.
Persons guilty of criminal acts against the nationals of any one of the Allied and Associated Powers will be brought before the military tribunals of that power.

"All persons guilty of criminal acts against the nationals of more than one of the Allied and Associated powers will be brought before a military tribunal composed of members
